Putting people at the heart of nursing care: leading the way
21 June 2013, Bournemouth, Phi Mu Chapter (England) Inaugural Conference

We warmly welcome you to the inaugural conference of the Phi Mu Chapter of Sigma Theta Tau International (STTI), Nursing Honor Society. We have an excellent programme of keynote speakers, concurrent presentations and posters addressing the four themes of Education, Leadership, Professional Practice and Engaging with Service Users. At this conference, we wish to bring together students, practitioners, current and future nurse leaders from diverse clinical and academic settings to stimulate networking and collaboration among STTI members and the wider healthcare community for the benefit of patient care. This conference offers us a real opportunity to promote, develop and celebrate excellence in nursing knowledge, research, leadership and nursing practice. It is designed to encourage networking and debate and enable participants to explore the impact that the contemporary knowledge, being presented, has on improving quality nursing care.

Professor Elizabeth Rosser

Keynote speakers

Jane Cummings
Chief Nursing Officer for England the National Commissioning Board Authority

Jane worked as a nurse for many years specialising in emergency care before moving into general management. She has held a wide variety of clinical and managerial roles including Director of Commissioning, Director of Nursing and Deputy Chief Executive. Jane was the nursing advisor for emergency care in CNS’s office before becoming the national lead for emergency care in February 2004. Jane also worked with the Royal College of Nursing to develop the role of nurse and improve the experience and care of patients. Jane moved to NHSE North West in November 2007 where she had executive responsibility for the professional leadership of nursing, quality, performance, QIPP and commissioning. She was appointed as the Chief Nurse for the North of England SHA Cluster in October 2011. Jane is the national lead for the Energise for Excellence programme. She is also the SRO for the Clinical Leader’s Network in the North of England, the national nursing lead and a member of the national steering group, and has recently taken up the post of Chief Nursing Officer.

Professor Brendan McCormack
D.Phil (Oxon.), BSc (Hons.), PGCEA, RMN, RN

Brendan is Director of the Institute of Nursing and Health Research and Head of the Person-centred Practice Research Centre at the University of Ulster. His internationally recognised work in person-centred practice development and research has resulted in successful long-term collaborations in Ireland, the UK, Norway, The Netherlands, Canada and Australia. His writing and research work focuses on person-centred practice, gerontological nursing, and practice development and he serves on a number of editorial boards, policy committees, and development groups in these areas. He has a particular focus on the use of arts and creativity in healthcare research and development. Brendan has more than 110 peer-reviewed publications as well as six books published and in 2011 he was awarded the status of Senior Distinguished Research Fellow¹ by the University of Ulster, in recognition of his research achievements.

Professor Roger Watson
PhD RN FRGN FAAN

Roger Watson is a graduate of The University of Edinburgh with a PhD in biochemistry from The University of Sheffield who qualified in nursing at St George’s Hospital, London. Working in care of older people, he has a special interest in the feeding and nutritional problems of older people with dementia. He is Editor-in-Chief of Journal of Advanced Nursing and a frequent visitor to China and Australia where he has visiting positions. He was most recently Professor of Nursing, University of Sheffield and is a member of the Research Excellence Framework sub-panel in Allied Health Professions, Dentistry, Nursing and Pharmacy.
